In relation to Uncle Zach, Emerson, I will state that I am very thankful to him for his kindness to me. In relation to a remark made to me by him, I took it as a joke only. I will say to him to cast no censure upon himself for the remark. I believe him to be an excellent, good man, and deserves and ought to fill a different niche in the temple of humanity. He is too good a man to fil a position so grave, fearful, responsible and solenin as that of an executioner to exact life; for philosophy as well as religion teaches us that to It is not the exaction of life for life, blood for blood—it is the binding of man's person to a tri-amphal car, to incarcerate them into strong holds, amphal car, to incarcerate them into strong holds, testimony was against them and the power and strength. Blood in Kansas City. Hardly a day passes but what blood flows in Kansas City. Instead of its being a civilized city, it is fast gaining a reputation abroad as being a perfect hell of its own. Yesterday was not a very good day for killing, but Kansas City responded nobly to swell the crime of the country. John ing July 7th, 1879, Mrs. Tevis, wife of Hon. C. C. Tevis, Representative in the Legislature from the Western District of Johnson county.

to swell the crime of the country. John Henry, a negro, got cut by Bud Williams, a negro bar-tender, who pretty much made mince-mest of his victim. Josie Crawford was badly beaten over the face and head by a fruit vender named Dennis Sheehan. Both parties are in jail, and peace reigned the balance of the day.
